Having a mentee who is passionate about social justice can catch even the most effective mentor off guard. To what extent should you direct a student's energy or funnel their interest? What if you are passionate about an issue that isn't your mentor's expertise? How can you motivate your peers to take a more active role in enhancing the community? Join us and our panel of experts in a discussion on how social justice intersects with effective mentoring!

What is M@P?

M@P is a mentoring program designed for women and minority graduate students at Purdue University. M@P aims to improve the quality of graduate education through fostering mentoring relationships between graduate students and faculty or staff members.
