Mentoring in the Classroom

Utilizing Learner-Centered Teaching to Build Positive Student Relationships

Wednesday, November 14, 2018

Noon – 1pm (Lunch provided)

Pfendler Hall 241

Dr. Michael L. Mashtare Jr.

Assistant Professor

Department of Agronomy and Environmental & Ecological Engineering

Mentoring is more than meeting over coffee and connecting through emails—the classroom can be the perfect environment for creating a positive relationship with your students! However, a better understanding of Learner-Centered Teaching (LCT) can optimize potential for mentoring relationships. Join us for an interactive workshop on how to incorporate an LCT philosophy into your classroom!

What is M@P?

M@P is a mentoring program designed for women and minority graduate students.

M@P aims to improve the quality of graduate education through fostering mentoring relationships between graduate students and faculty or staff members.
