

Lyles School of Civil and Construction Engineering
Burke Graduate Program
Health and Wellbeing Scholarship
Applications due October 11, 2024

Purpose: The Lyles School of Civil Engineering recognizes the importance of maintaining your health and wellbeing as a graduate student. To help alleviate some of the financial burden that graduate students are subject to through healthcare, daycare and insurance costs, the Burke CE Graduate Program are offering this scholarship.

The Health and Wellbeing Scholarship has two categories: 1) Childcare/Dependent Care and 2) Individual Wellbeing Care. For fall 2024, we will have a total of twenty scholarships - ten $750 scholarships available in each category.

The Childcare/Dependent Care scholarship is meant to help with the challenges of raising a family. The scholarship funds can be used for medical expenses, daycare or after-school care costs, and food security, etc.

The Individual Wellbeing Care scholarship is meant to help individual students with health and wellbeing expenses such as medical expenses and food security.

The scholarships will be processed through the Bursar's office and the student's myPurdue account and will first be applied to any outstanding balances owed to the University. Students are eligible to receive a Health and Wellbeing Scholarship once every two years.
