

CALL FOR STUDENT-AUTHORED SUBMISSIONS TO THE PURDUE JOURNAL OF SERVICE LEARNING & INTERNATIONAL ENGAGEMENT

Proposals and articles are currently being accepted for consideration in the seventh volume of the Purdue Journal of Service-Learning and International Engagement (PJSL). Publication in the Fall 2020 issue of the journal requires proposals be received no later than February 1, 2020, and complete article submissions no later than April 1, 2020. Submissions are made directly to the PJSL website at <http://docs.lib.purdue.edu/pjssl/>. Proposals are accepted on a rolling basis, and those received after the deadline will be considered for the following 2021 issue.

The sixth volume of the Purdue Journal of Service-Learning and International Engagement (PJSL) is now published online and is available in print in different academic offices around campus. Visit the PJSL website at <http://docs.lib.purdue.edu/pjssl/> to read and download articles written by Purdue students and faculty about different community engagement projects and experiences locally and globally.

Faculty and staff are encouraged to share this information with students interested in publishing an article, and are also encouraged to mentor a student writing an article.

Article types include:

- Reflective Essay is a student-authored description of a community engagement project (3500 words).
- Research with Reflection is a student-authored research article which may be secondarily co-authored by a faculty member or community partner describing an engagement project using quantitative, qualitative or mixed methods research methodology (3500 words).
- Community Partner Snapshot is a student-authored description of a community partner/organization and the service opportunities for students and faculty within the organization (1000 words).
- Faculty Profile Interview is a student-authored interview with a faculty member involved in service-learning and/or community engagement initiatives (1500 words).

We are also accepting submissions for a new category of community-inspired cover art for the journal. We are looking for artwork, photography, digital design, or other graphic illustrations which are inspired by community engagement, either at the local or international levels.

For more information about submissions or the editorial process, contact the Editor, Jennifer Bay, at jbay@purdue.edu, the Journal Coordinator, Weiran Ma, at ma469@purdue.edu, or visit the PJSL website at <http://docs.lib.purdue.edu/pjssl/>
